

ACADEMY FELLOW

James H. Martin

The Virginia Academy of Science has bestowed its highest honor to James H. Martin by electing him a Fellow of the Academy. Dr. Martin is Professor of Biology and Laboratory Sciences Program Head at J. S. Reynolds Community College.

He received his B. A. degree from The University of Virginia, M. S. from The University of Richmond and Ph. D. from The University of Tennessee. After Post Doctoral work At the Medical College of Virginia, Virginia Commonwealth University, he became a charter faculty member of J. S. Reynolds Community College. His research and publications have included many subjects such as sodium transport, muscle biophysics, reptilian physiology, and in recent years, the long term effects of nuclear disasters.

Dr. Martin, a 20 year member of the Academy, was applauded for his service as business manager and editor of the Journal.